J. Hoppis of New York on Sunday caught the first weakflah of the Rockaway Iron pler season. Fishermen are also catching some fluke and weakflah. I. SIMON. Rockaway Beach, July 2. Base and Blackflah at Middle Grounds.

Base and Blackfish at Middle Grounds.
Fishermen in the Daphne, Capt. Mike
Hobbs, at the Middle Grounds on Saturday caught sea bass up to 4 pounds and blackfish ranging from 1 to 3½ pounds each.
The heaviest sea bass was the 4 pound fish taken by Edward N. Leavy. Righ hook was Rudy Lewitus with 2s sea bass and 2 blackfish.

The short lobster pest is around again.

The Daphne has installed a new 60 horse-power engine.

See Base at Cholers and Angler Banks. The short lobster pest is around again. Capt. Frank Baumann of the Moccasin was kept busy chasing them away from the boat the other day, but thanks to the United Anglers League crusade against them lant year their number has decreased. The beam trawiers mentioned to-day by J. J. Johnson have been complained of to the Conservation Commission, and I am assured by the omicials that quick action will be taken. This netting is certainly a direct defiance both of the United Anglers League and the new netting law passed at Albany this year.

It is also a raw deal wor those who pay money to the Sheepshead Bay Boat Owners Association in order to fish Rockaway Point or the Mussel Beds. Why doesn't the capable and efficient secretary Frank Hammer wake up and get busy?

At the Angler and Cholera Banks the Moccasin Marines successed in landing some sea bass. Charles A. Hail of 311 East Sixty-fifth street taking second money with a 54 pound humback, and Frank Ward of 1491 Amsterdam avenus was third with a 44 pound fish. I took first with a 64 pound bass.

New York, July 3.

Wardens Arrest Jamsica Bay Netters. Through the good work of David Benson and Edgar Hicks, both New York State game wardens, it gives me great pleasure to congratulate them upon the arrest of four Italian net violators who were apprehended late last Thursday night.

I understand from later information that they were brought before the Magistrates Court at Far Rockaway and each fined $20 together with the confiscating of their net, which is worth a considerable sum. JAMES McBRIER 1908 Second avenue, April 2.

Women Take Weakfish on Cotton Thread. In Jamaiga Bay the other day, under the guidance of Harry Christian who acted as tutor to the two fair angiers. Mrs. Edith B. Webb and Miss Madelene Paul, 3 weakfish were captured. Miss Paul landed 4, Mrs. Webb and Miss Madelene Paul, 3 weakfish were captured. Miss Paul landed 4, Mrs. Webb and Miss Madelene Paul, 3 weakfis

Mr. Christian, while low hook, succeeded in landing the largest fish caught on cotton thread up to date, a weakfish weighing 5 pounds 97-16 ounces.

Many women are becoming interested in cotton thread and to show they are regular fellows have taken to wearing overails, which is the most sensible costume imaginable for women in a boat.

Lock forward and discard your sorrows.
The forces that pulse in our earth,
Hold prisoned a million to morrows.
Awaiting to spring forth in birth.

To Hope—these give sweet requital, Impatient to throw off their chain, And grow into powers most vital, To add to the storehouse of gain.

And, so the future is sending.

A greeting before it appears.

To join the procession unending.

Of shadowy shapes of the years.

All eager the millions are waiting. To take up the burden of strife. So cease on the past things debating. And think of the new, coming life.

We're part of a wonderful planning, A flish in the chartless unknown, From Here unto There we are spanning, But nething we have is our own.

We live on a spiritual border,
Our souls confined for a time,
We follow the circle of order,
And march on in measure sublime.

Admirer Paints Good Qualities of Ling.

I have read with interest the article entitled "Who East Ling." We thrashed out the "baby flounder" subject last year; now we'll discuss line.

The fall of 1915 and spring of 1917 were most productive in ling. I have made large catches of them personally and wasted not one.

It might be interesting to many readers when they are told that ling, sea robin and catfish are most delicious to know something about them. If they are going to judge the different species by their habits these fish must be climinated from their table.

one day and then again it will fall away to nothing, these conditions applying to all the well known grounds.

The inagination of fishermen gets the feature of them. The fisherman who fishes the inagination of fishermen gets the best of them. The fisherman who fishes the tides at Atlantic City refuses to catch, lot alone eat fine specimens of blackfish known there are allowed fishermen aboard.

Capt. Jay Carman then fished Buoy I with even poorer results.

Fishing in the bay is also poor, both as regards fluke and weakfish, and though there are a few fair individual catches it is fair to say that the position of angiers at this writing is one of "watchful walf-fine." ARTHUR THORNTON.

Thompson, and J. E. Widener's imported herse Chiclet, were the only contestants in the Red Cross event. After they had raced for seven furiongs as a team Chiclet dropped back.

Old Rosebud took command and entering the stretch was a length in front. He was carrying 139 pounds and the heavy going made it a still heavier burden. But down the long homestretch he raced with enough speed to withstand a determined challenge from Bromo, and poked his nose home in front. Bromo earned second honors by eight lengths over Chiclet.

Cahill's Blue Thistle was awarded first place in the fifth race, a claiming event at one mile and a sixteenth, but few in the crowd could be found who would admit he was entitled to the decision. In the opinion of a vast majority of the spectators W. H. Hogan's Checks crossed the finish line half a length in front. But the judges said that Blue Thistle had won. After the race a crowd gathered around the stewards' stand and protested against the decision, but it was in vain.
The steeplechase at two and one-half miles went to the Glen Riddle Farm's Wolferton II. He lay off the pace until the last obstacle was reached. Then Jockey Keating rushed him to the front and he won easily by three lengths.

L. W. Lissberger's Syoeset finished second and H. L. Pratt's Loch Earn was third. In the final run to judges Loch Earn bumped and banged Ormead badly and killed any chance Ormead might have had of winning. No claim of foul was made.
